THE proposal to tax consumers of natural gas, which The Star denounced when it first appeared last spring as an oil-conservation measure, bobbed up again yesterday in a plan to make city folks the "goat" for debts owed by all the state.

Year 1933 Brings Science Closer to Mystery of Life

Lord Rutherford Discovers Radium Light Turning Into Solids

ENERGY OF STARS

It Is Possible Light Rays Change Into Living and Inanimate Matter

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

(Associated Press Science Editor)

NEW YORK — (AP) — The year 1933 brought science a step closer to its great riddle, the origin of life, the hidden process in which matter changes from inanimate into living substance.

The main step was photography showing radium rays a form of light, changing into solid matter. Some foremost scientists said these pictures disclosed for the first time the miracle of the creation of matter, showing how the radiation of sun and stars may change back into concrete substance.

Lord Rutherford, in whose Cambridge laboratory some of the photos were taken, called them "creation." Dr. Robert A. Millikan, the California physicist in whose Pasadena laboratory similar pictures were snapped, said they were too few to be conclusive.

But there was no disagreement that the photos opened a new insight into the nature of the minute particles which compose both inanimate and living things. The "creation" pictures were only part of similar significant discoveries.

Atom "Taken Apart"

Others established that the atom, only a few years ago considered the ultimate particle of matter, comprises at least six small units. These little particles have been weighed. The laws under which more than one scientist has hinted seem to extend beyond purely physical things.

For tracing life to its origin these particles appear to be new and promising tools. There is reason to believe they are the original jigsaw pieces, and that they can be laid out in two ways, one to form inanimate, the other living substance.

"Hereditary" Carriers Studied

Hereditary carriers may be suggested by action of the smallest living units actually seen under microscopes. These are chromosomes, the carriers of heredity, living threads inhabiting living cells.

But these chromosomes are not always visible to microscopes. They appear when the cell prepares to divide. That is, to grow. Before this the cell center is a knot of clear protoplasm, inside a baglike membrane.

Within this knot granules, or tiny specks, begin to appear. They form themselves into long threads, the chromosomes. The threads writhe and twist. The baglike membrane fades. The knot of protoplasm enlarges. Then the chromosomes arrange themselves across the center of the cell like an equator.

Move Over, Divide Again

Next they tear themselves in two longitudinally, making two complete sets of chromosomes. Each set moves to the opposite side of the cell, which divides into two.

The chromosomes then gather in the centers of their new cells. There they disappear from view, to be replaced by another knotted kind of protoplasm, like the one from which they emerged. Whence they come or where they go is beyond vision of microscopes.

It is here, in learning the origin of chromosomes, and of the much smaller things which form them that the discoveries of new particles and of creation of matter may be helpful. For these particles are so vastly smaller than chromosomes that they can account for all the complexities of life known on earth.

The Atom's Broad

These particles are the electron, a negative bit of electricity; the positron, a positive charge equal in mass to the electron; the proton, a positive charge about 1836 times the electron mass; the neutron, with no electrical charge; the deuteron, seemingly a combination of proton and neutron; and the alpha particle, considered as a combination of four neutrons and two protons.

All appear from bombardment of atomic nuclei by extra powerful rays either of light or of streams of particles. All appear as debris of broken nuclei. In this debris also the photographs show parts of particles, electrons and positrons, which may not be debris. They are believed to be converted photons, or light rays, changed into matter by passing close to the nucleus.

Mules Wreck Car on Ozan Highway, Hope Folk Escape

Returning From Nashville Dance, Auto Party Has Close Call

MACHINE DITCHED

Second Car Just Misses Herd of Mules Roaming Highway

Returning home from a dance at Nashville, a party of Hope young people early Thursday escaped what might have been serious injury when their car left the highway and went into a ditch one mile north of Ozan.

The automobile, driven by Jimmy Cook, was badly smashed. Riding in the car with Cook were Miss Louise Oglesby, Vincent Foster, Miss Mary Powell and Leonard Ellis.

The accident occurred when the driver attempted to avoid striking a couple of mules which suddenly appeared on the highway. When the brakes were applied the car swerved, left the road and landed on its side in the ditch.

The windshield and windows cracked, but no one was seriously cut by glass. Miss Oglesby, riding in the front seat with Cook, fainted, but was soon revived when taken from the car.

Foster was injured the worst, complaining of internal hurts and a cut on the right hand. He was taken to the City home at Ozan and given medical aid.

A second car occupied by Pete Brown, Jack Turner and several others was almost wrecked when it also came upon several mules roaming the highway.

If the situation has become so critical that a tax on fuel is being seriously considered, then it is obvious Arkansas is up against a general sales tax—paid by all the people, in proportion to the value of goods they buy.

I am sure that when the time comes the people of Arkansas will give a fair hearing to the possibilities of the sales tax.

In today's Star you may read where the people of Illinois have just voted a 2 per cent general sales tax, and abolished the state property tax.

The only property tax in the future in Illinois will be a local tax voted by counties and cities and school districts.

Mississippi has had a sales tax for the last two years—and this is the issue before Arkansas, not merely a tax on fuel, and a tax on city fuel alone, at that.

Walter Ebel in Charge of Hot Springs District, 32 Enumerators

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—A setup for a federal business survey of the state, employing 176 enumerators in five districts into which the state has been divided, was announced Thursday.

The appointments of district supervisors included Walter Ebel, Hot Springs, for the third district, embracing 15 counties employing 32 enumerators; and G. B. Colvin, Warren, with headquarters at El Dorado, for the fifth district, embracing 17 counties and employing 34 enumerators.

Second Honeymoon

Just a few weeks ago Mrs. Ben Chapman, wife of the New York Yankees' star outfielder, was in court at Birmingham, Ala., seeking separate maintenance. But what she really wanted was a reconciliation. And when her husband convinced her he was "in earnest" about making up, the two embarked on their "second honeymoon." Here is the smiling couple as they visited in Nashville, Tenn.

Illinois Abolishes Real Estate Tax

2 Per Cent Sales Tax Replaces 35-Million-Dollar Levy

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—(AP)—Illinois Wednesday abolished real estate and personal property taxes so far as state assessments are concerned. It was the first complete substitution of a sales tax for property taxes in the United States.

The step was taken after state officials decided a 2 per cent tax on retail sales, with perhaps some help from liquor taxation, would be adequate to replace the $35,000,000 levied annually in recent years on general property.

Although cities, counties, park systems, sanitary districts and other local units will continue to tax real and personal property, abolition of the state's share of the revenue will result in a saving of from seven to 19 per cent to property owners.

The abolition is effective on 1933 taxes, for which property owners will be billed early in 1934.

Authorities said they hoped the action would be of beneficial result in Chicago and Cook county, where $200,000,000 is overdue in taxes for 1929, 1930 and 1931.

The state's share of the property tax for 1932 was 50 cents on the $100 valuation, an increase of 15 cents over the previous year. Were it not for the sales tax, officials said, the rate would have had to be between 70 cents and $1 in 1933, due to the fact that the EL DORADO, Ark.—(AP)—Unexpected difficulties arose in far-off Czechoslovakia Thursday to cause the postponement of the trans-Atlantic telephone wedding of Benjamin Labowitz and Miss Weiss Hermina, set for Thursday morning.

With arrangements completed for uniting the bride, at Prague, and Labowitz, here, it developed that proof is required by Czechoslovakian authorities that one of the parties is a citizen of the United States.

It will take about ten days to iron out difficulties.

Contest Certain

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The Louisiana House delegation split into Long and anti-Long factions Wednesday with the arrival here of Mrs. Bolivar E. Kemp for conferences on her contest with J. Y. Sanders Jr., for the seat from the Sixth Louisiana district.

Democratic leaders were disturbed by reports that Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana threatened an attempt to force the House to seat Mrs. Kemp pending an investigation of the election. Long is due here the latter part of the week. One party chief said that if Senator Long came on the House floor to force the issue Mrs. Kemp's chances of being seated even temporarily would be endangered.

A member of the Louisiana delegation, who described himself as an "anti-Long" man, said:

"You can say definitely that when Mrs. Kemp stands to take the oath on January 3, that she will be asked to step aside pending an investigation of her election."

18 CWA Projects for 181 Women in Hempstead Co.

Canning and Sewing Units Operating at Full Speed

IN 9 COMMUNITIES

8 Canning and 10 Sewing Projects Distributed to Hempstead

Eighteen projects employing a total of 181 women are now in operation in the nine community centers of Hempstead county, according to Mrs. Harry Shiver, county supervisor of the Women's Civil Works Service.

Following are the canning units and their resident supervisors:

Place	Supervisor
Hope	Mrs. Riley Levalien
Columbus	Mrs. William Gilbert
Fulton	Mrs. O. H. Bristow
Washington	Mrs. Lat Moses
Patmos	Miss Foncille Black
Spring Hill	Mrs. Marie McBay
Bingen	Mrs. Earl Holt
Blevins	Mrs. Bob Taylor

The eight canning units are working five days a week with a maximum of 40 hours per week. They are canning meats, both beef and pork, and vegetables such as sweet potatoes, hominy, turnip greens, beans and pumpkins. For this service the government is charging at the rate of one can of meat out of every four. The cans are turned over to the government. Those interested in getting their surplus can be urged to see the supervisor in their community.

Following are the 10 sewing units, their locations and supervisors:

Place	Supervisor
Hope	Mrs. J. L. Jamison
Blevins	Mrs. Carl Brown
Patmos	Mrs. Oille Welch
Spring Hill	Mrs. Geneva Gregory
Columbus	Mrs. C. R. White
Fulton	Mrs. Ed Wilson
Bingen	Mrs. J. F. Haynes
Washington	Mrs. J. W. Butler
Piney Grove	Mrs. Blanche Jones
Hope (negro)	Cris LaCure

To date the above 10 units have turned into the commissary 503 garments including dresses, gowns, sheets, pillow cases, comforts, children's dresses, boys suits, and underwear. The sewing units work 30 hours to the week.

The Hope library project with Mrs. J. A. Henry as supervisor is employing five women who are mending the library books.

Insurance Compulsory

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The first instance of a national act refusing to participate in the federal deposit insurance pool Wednesday evoked from Treasury officials a shoulder-shrugging statement that the institution had no choice in the matter.

Informed that J. M. Nichols, president of the First National bank of Englewood, Chicago, had announced his institution would not join unless compelled to do so by the government, Walter J. Cummings, president of the Deposit Insurance Corporation said:

"Congress decided that long ago for Mr. Nichols, and his bank will participate along with every other national bank."

"We are flatly opposed to the deposit insurance scheme," Nichols said in Chicago. "The only way we will have anything to do with it is through government coercion. Our bank's deposits are secured 94 per cent by cash and government bonds and we can make the bank 100 per cent liquid on a week's notice."

Banks taking out federal insurance pay a premium, and Nichols explained that he believed "a gross injustice would be committed against the management of this bank and our customers were we compelled to make good the losses of mismanaged banks."

The premium is computed as one quarter of one per cent of insured deposits. Several large Chicago banks issued figures giving the number of depositors insured, the amount involved and the amount of premium which they must pay. The highest premium was $321,224 by the First National bank.

Wasson to Announce Re-opening of Several Restricted Banks

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—A sound banking system with millions of dollars in new capital was professed Arkansas Thursday by Bank Commissioner Marion Wasson who said he would formally announce the details by New Year's day.

"I promised the people of Arkansas last March, when the banking holiday was declared," he said, "that I would not permit any bank to reopen until its condition was sound."

"I have kept that promise, and now we are in a position to say the banking structure sound to the very core will be available for the state by January 1."

The new deal includes probable reopening of a number of banks now on a restricted basis, announcement of deposit insurance, and of additional capital through the sale of preferred stock to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—(AP)—Theodore Roosevelt, former governor of the Philippines, Thursday attacked the public works program as costly and wasteful, and said direct cash aid for the unemployed would cost only half as much.

His remarks were contained in a speech prepared for delivery at a luncheon meeting of the Manufacturers and Banks clubs here.

"Let us meet the cash squarely on the basis of direct cash aid for the unemployed," he said.

"It will cost only half as much to the states and the nation as we pay under the public works program. It will also give these unemployably unemployed a sense of security which they lack now, when they can look forward only to spasmodic employment on specific public projects."

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

Real Influence Is Exerted by Lobbyists . . . Wagner Bars NRA Overtime, but Johnson Demands It . . . Rum Is Halted as Islanders' Salvation.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—The more suave lobbyists here aren't worrying about recent attacks on their operations. They expect some unpleasant attacks in the next session of Congress, but publicity advertising them as "fixers" even may prove profitable. They anticipate a continued demand for their services.

Secretary Ickes began a campaign against "fixers" operating around Public Works headquarters. Nearly all the $3,300,000,000 had been handed out and most lobbyists no longer were interested.

Even then, Ickes acted only after hearing a flagrant case. A lobbyist had threatened to officials of a sovereign state that he would block their projects if they didn't play ball with him.

James L. Bernard, whom Ickes branded as persona non grata around PWA offices, has been asked of the Secretary Robert Jackson of the Democratic National Committee.

The fact was not lost on his clients, though Bernard is not accused of capitalizing Jackson's name. Jackson commonly is regarded as a "fixer" de luxe.

The official attitude always is that lobbyists are persons of no influence, who prey on the credulity of persons and corporations using them to obtain profitable favors from the government.

Everyone here knows differently. Many do have influence and at least can be sure of sympathetic hearings from friendly officials. Bernard, for instance, had close contacts inside FWA.

In every discussion of lobbying here you hear the names of Jackson and National Committeeman Arthur Mulen of Nebraska and J. Bruce Kremer of Montana. The three were important Roosevelt leaders at the Chicago national convention and each opened a "law office" here after March 4.

Many of their closest friends are scattered through government, including some cabinet members. Any idea that their political standing doesn't attract customers to them is preposterous.

As long as the government is handing out billions of dollars, lobbying here will continue to flourish.

Overtime? Yes and No

It was p. m. and Chairman Bob Wagner of the National Labor Board saw lights on in some of his offices across the courtyard.

"Go and tell those people to clear out," he commanded his assistant, Heber Blankenhorn. "It's after 4:30."

Just the day before, Wagner promptly had granted a request from a committee of the NRA employers' union for elimination of overtime work. He meant it.

The committee hadn't had any luck with General Johnson, however. Previously, Johnson had questioned the employers' right to organize. Wagner had conceded it immediately.

His concession of the standard government seven-hour day and 39-hour week to his own workers means the NLRB must huddle more employees.

Rum has it behind the plan for a virtual government monopoly on sugar and rum production in the Virgin Islands is Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Rex Tugwell, a member of the Public Works Board which will advance the money.

Tugwell wanted a government liquor monopoly for the United States. The Virgin Islands scheme is expected to rescue the islanders from economic misery and provide an interesting experiment resembling state socialism.

Latest plans call for acquisition of 6000 acres of sugar cane land and development of a 500,000-gallon still to convert the blackstrap molasses by-product into rum.

It will be 18 months or two years, however, before the proposed federal corporation can be selling that famous old St. Croix rum here on the mainland.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

Members of the average family aren't always nice to each other. So often it happens that father, mother and children seem to be waiting for someone's hat to drop, or the chip to fall off a shoulder, or the fat to jump into the fire.

This habit of grumpiness in families grows so subtly and so swiftly that no one suspects it. If their friends, relatives, or neighbors were to hint that all was not serene in their daily life they would be hurt and resentful.

Family Irritability Growing

Yet if one appeared unexpectedly on the threshold at any minute of almost any day when this family is together the chances are there would be a ruckus going on about something, or someone yelling, or someone quietly sulking to himself. If the family in question disdains such plebeian tactics and considers verbal fencing a higher form of combative art than the cleaver or the broad sword of noisy quarreling, things can be quite as uncomfortable.

Wealth, culture, or social position make little difference. The family in which the habit of quarreling has taken root will go about it in its own way. One can go into a house as quietly serene, seemingly, as a dewy dell on a May morning, yet feel instantly the brittle strain of unfriendliness in every word and gesture.

This irritability and impatience is growing rapidly in American homes. It was almost inevitable for this to happen as individual interests have drifted apart with the years. Moreover, there are too few common ties. Each one comes in tired and the family meets at a time when nerves are not their best. And there is plenty today to unnerve the best of us.

Talk the Matter Over

What would be wrong with calling the family together for a council, passing the pipe of peace, and discussing the state of affairs?

A mother might say, "Children, and you too, Dad, and I myself, have become careless of each other's feelings. We are short tempered and fly off without reason at the slightest thing. We offend where we don't really mean to, we accuse or get suspicious when we should know better, we are disliking, selfish and sour. In fact we often treat each other far less courteously than we would treat complete strangers."

"Let us all try to be kinder, to help each other. We might try to smile and be merry instead of looking like thunder clouds half the time."

And any family that is worth its salt will give three cheers for good old Rutgers and agree to adopt new rules for the home team in the future.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

Planning a beauty routine and vowing to give your scalp, hair, figure and complexion in excellent condition is one good way to start the New Year.

Take stock of your cosmetic cabinet and see what you need in the way of beauty preparations. Have you either a cleansing cream or a good cleansing tonic. If you use cleansing cream, remember that a skin tonic is practically a necessity. Then, of course, you need a nourishing or tissue cream. And a foundation cream or lotion.

Besides the regular preparations, how about things with which to apply them and take them off? Using cosmetics is much easier and certainly more amusing if you have on hand plenty of cotton, cleansing tissues and the like.

How about your rouge and lipstick? Do they bend or did you run out of one of them just before Christmas and neglect to buy a re-fill? Well, the holiday rush is over now and it's well worth your while to see that there is complete harmony among your various cosmetics.

Have you been intending to get that bottle of hair tonic which you're sure will correct your particular scalp defect? Nearly every woman needs something for a semi-weekly hair treatment at home and now is the time to find out what you need and how to use it.

Have you discovered tiny little lines around your eyes this New Year? Better invest in a bottle of muscle oil.

NEXT: More beauty hints for the New Year.

London confectioners exhibited 2000 varieties of candy at their 1933 convention; one firm alone had 22 tons of sweets at the exposition.

Rabbits use their teeth freely in fighting among themselves, but they will not bite a man even in self-defense.

In Tibet, rafts are made by fastening together a number of inflated yak skins, and placing a light frame platform on top.

Some Japanese women sleep on wooden pillows in order not to muss their hair.

Only female wasps and hornets can sting; males make no effort to guard the nest.

The girl's face was colorless but her voice remained steady. "I'm afraid I can't help yourself, Elbert. I am mixed up in it and I'm not going with you."

Nor could she be persuaded. The argument lasted for another 20 minutes during which Stuart threatened and stormed and his wife begged. Juliet France remained by her decision. At last the couple left. They would go to a hotel, they said, and get in touch with Juliet next day. Over his shoulder Stuart mumbled a parting shot about hoping the next day would find the girl "more reasonable."

Juliet turned apologetically to Mrs. Hewlett and Bannister. "I'm terribly sorry," she said, "to have a scene like that here. Did you really mean what you said, Mrs. Hewlett—that I can stay here? I could go to a hotel—that is, if the police will let me—"

Bannister interrupted quickly. "Aunt Kate," he said, "all this must be a great mystery to you. I guess it's time for me to make a confession. I told you when Miss France came here that she was an old friend of mine. That wasn't quite the truth."

"The truth," his aunt told him scornfully, "is that she's the mysterious blond the police were looking for after they found Tracy King dead. Did you think I didn't know that? David, you must take me for a fool!"

"Why, Aunt Kate?"

"I've known all the time who she was," his aunt went on, "and I've known that idiot, Jordan, is a policeman, too, out here to see what was going on. Well, he hasn't learned much! I've kept him running errands and cleaning the furnace and doing more work than I'll wager he's done in six months! Maybe we can get rid of him now. If we can it will be one thing to thank your brother-in-law for anything, Juliet."

The girl's eyes were shining. "Mrs. Hewlett," she said, "there's nobody in the world like you!"

"Humph!" Kate Hewlett tugged at the edge of her collar, straightening it. "A good thing that is. At least I'm smart enough to know when David Bannister is up to tricks! He didn't fool me often when he was a youngster and he can't fool me now. As for your going any place else — if you do, I'll never forgive you!"

"You're invited to stay as long as you like," Mrs. Hewlett assured her. "I like to have young folks about the house. I think it does me good to have company. My land—I forgot all about that ham!"

The baked ham was scarcely the worse for its neglect. The food was soon on the table and the three of them sat down to dinner. Bannister said, as he handed a plate to his aunt, "What I can't understand, Aunt Kate, is how you guessed all these secrets? How long, honestly, have you known who Miss France was?"

"Well," said Mrs. Hewlett, "I knew that day you telephoned and said you were bringing someone out that you had something up your sleeve. I could tell it by your voice. And when you two got here I was more certain than ever. But it wasn't until that night that I was positive who she was. You told me yourself."

"Practically, I remember it was after Juliet had gone upstairs to her room. You asked me not to say anything to her about Tracy King being murdered. Offered some flimsy excuse — something about there being a death in her family recently. That was when it came to me. I'd figured that man Jordan wasn't what he pretended to be. Well, it came to me all at once where I'd seen the name 'Juliet France' in the newspapers, of course."

"So then I just put two and two together. I must say, though, the police in this town are dumber than I thought they were. To think Juliet could have anything to do with that murder! Why, one look at her is enough to know better than that. That's why I kept Policeman Jordan running errands."

BANNISTER laughed. "And how he hated it!" he said. "Poor Jordan! By the way, where is he?"

"He's gone," Kate Hewlett told him crisply. "I told him to report to Chief Henley that we didn't need any more policemen around here and if he sent out another one I'd complain to the mayor. The man just sort of gulped and said, 'Yes, Ma'am,' and made for the door. I don't think he'll be back again."

"Aunt Kate, you should have been a policeman yourself!"

"Well, I think I could make a better job of it than some of them wags' got around."

Juliet said, "Don't let him tease you, Mrs. Hewlett. You're the sweetest person I've ever met — and the kindest."

U. S. Collections Gain in November

135 Millions This Year, Against 85 Millions in November, 1932

Commissioner of Internal Revenue Guy T. Helvering made public from Washington, D. C., today the comparative statement of internal revenue collections for the month of November, 1933.

The total revenue collected during November amounted to $135,706,922.65, compared with $85,484,476.64 collected in the month of November 1932, an increase of more than $50,000,000.

The items which in the aggregate accounted for the greater part of the increase in collections were the tax on dividends amounting to $6,394,489.24; collections from the estate tax in the sum of $6,214,717.72, approximately $4,000,000 in excess of the amount collected in November, 1932; tax on fermented malt liquors in the sum of $8,040,943.55; the tax on gasoline $17,037,101.66, an increase of about $3,000,000 over the preceding November; the tax on automobiles and motorcycles of $2,071,786.99, equal to about three times the amount collected in November, 1932; and the Agriculture Adjustment processing taxes of $30,265,904.02.

The tax on dividends, fermented malt liquors and the processing taxes were not in force a year ago. The collections from income tax aggregated $17,783,439.42, an increase of about $3,500,000 over November of last year. With the exception of February, 1933, this is the first month since January, 1931, that the collections from income tax have been greater than the amount received from that source for the same month in the preceding year. This result is gratifying to internal revenue officials who regard it as a sign that the campaign for the collection of back taxes upon which the Bureau is engaged is bearing fruit.

20 Convicts Given Christmas Leave

4-Day Absence Allowed Men to Spend Holidays With Families

LITTLE ROCK.—Four-day leaves of absence were granted 20 convicts at the prison farm at Tucker Saturday. Names of the prisoners released to visit relatives over Christmas were not available at the governor's office or at Tucker farm Tuesday.

H. C. McCall, secretary to Governor Futrell, confirmed a report that a score of trustees had been permitted to leave the institution for a few days on recommendation of A. G. Stedman, superintendent of the penitentiary, as a reward for good conduct and faithful service.

In a statement Tuesday night, Governor Futrell said the leaves of absence were authorized by Mr. McCall in his absence, but said he saw no objection to permitting prisoners with exemplary conduct records to visit their families for short periods in the interest of morale at an institution which must depend largely upon trusty guards to enforce prison discipline.

Among those permitted to go home for Christmas were Charles and Don Pearce, brothers, formerly of Little Rock and Pine Bluff, respectively, who were sentenced early in 1932 to life imprisonment for killing James E. Chapple, cashier of the Gazette Publishing Company, during a hold-up in the business office of the Gazette, January 9, 1932.

Records in the governor's office, it was revealed Tuesday, show that Governor Farnell permitted the Pearce brothers to leave the penitentiary several days during the holidays last year to visit relatives over New Year's Day. Letters in the file showed that Sheriff Garland Browder and County Judge R. H. Williams of Pine Bluff recommended the short furloughs a year ago.

Malaria Control Projects Started

Low Areas to Be Drained — 2 Jobs Begun, 2 More Will Follow

Two malaria control projects, launched by the United States Public Health service with the use of CWA labor, were under way in Hempstead county Wednesday.

One project was started in Hope, the other was at Ozan. The control work includes the draining of low wet areas, doing away with breeding places and mosquitoes.

Projects have been submitted for Fulton and Washington. If approved, work is expected to start soon. The control work is expected to continue throughout the year, and is not merely an emergency measure for the unemployed and needy. J. P. Wilson, local supervisor, said.

When CWA labor is no longer available the public health service expects direct government aid. Mr. Wilson said.

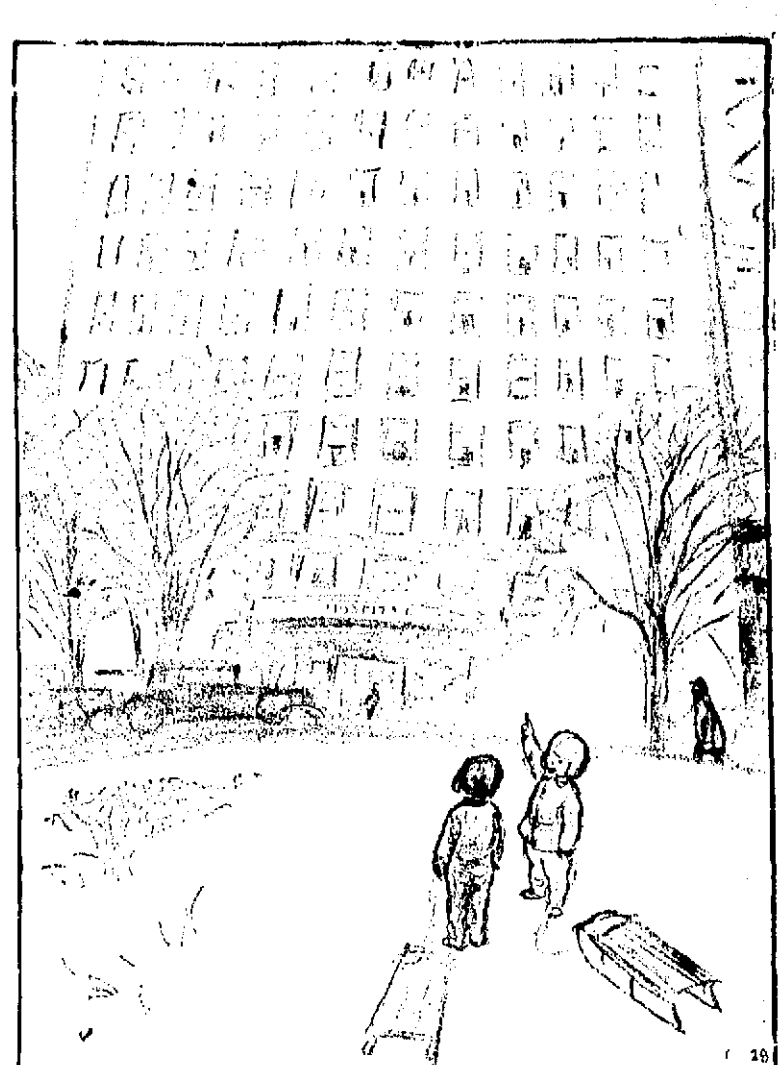

Any community in the county desiring control work may prepare a map on the estimate of the job and submit it in triplicate form to Mr. Wilson. His headquarters are in Nashville. He is supervisor for Hempstead, Howard, Sevier and Little River counties.

TAX DODGERS

But so many states have leaped into the liquor tax field, imposing levies of a dollar a gallon or more, that it probably will be some time before that issue of double taxation is straightened out.

This matter of federal-state taxation has a direct bearing on the boot-leg problem.

$1.50 Whisky Favored
The whisky tax eventually may be set at $2 or even lower, since Congress probably will have in mind that states will surmount taxes of their own.

There's a vague but general feeling here that palatable whisky should be made available at $1.50 a quart and that such a rate should discourage bootlegging. Unless liquor prices begin to sink toward that figure, investigations are promised.

Sentiment also has arisen for cutting the present $5 a gallon import duty on hard liquors to $3 or $4. The struggle over that proposal, as well as other liquor measures, will furnish an idea of the strength of the "liquor lobby" now functioning here.

Control Is Problem
Roosevelt may be given discretion to fix import duties on foreign wines, liquors, and beers in reciprocal trade agreements with other countries. In that case, Scotch and Irish whiskies might be admitted for as low as $2 a gallon, with wines as low as 60 cents instead of the present rate of $1.25.

Liquor control is something else again. It now is entrusted to the Federal Alcohol Control Administration, under Joseph H. Choate, Jr., which supervises codes covering distilling, importing, rectifying, wholesaling and beer.

Under those codes, the government has almost complete power over the industry and can control prices and supply.

Administration leaders in Congress, apparently reflecting the White House view, prefer to wait and see how FACA control works out. All kinds of control measures will be advanced, meanwhile, however, including some

Freed in Fascist Shooting Case

From a trial for murder to matrimony! That was the story of Athos Terzani, 31-year-old anti-Fascist, who was prepared to take when, as you see here, he embraced his fiancée, Tilla Gollo, after his acquittal in New York on the charge of fatally shooting a friend at a meeting of a Fascist organization.

providing for no control beyond federal protection for dry states.

Some Taxes May Go
Late in the session some control bill is likely to be introduced with administration backing. It might provide, as Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Rexford Tugwell urged, a federal corporation to buy the output of distilleries and sell it to the wholesale and retail agencies.

Roosevelt is believed to be interested in the idea.

Besides the taxes automatically eliminated by repeal, several nuisance taxes which now bring in only about $20,000,000 a year may be repealed because they are expensive to collect and bring little return.

Such taxes include those on bank checks, candy and chewing gum, soft drinks, radios, refrigerators, matches and firearms and shells.

Loupholes to Be Closed
Acting Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau has stressed the taxation principle of "ability to pay" in pre-Congress discussions, and the issue will be fought out on the floors of both houses.

A proposed single normal income tax rate instead of the present two classes of rates would be accompanied by higher surtaxes to offset resultant decreased revenues.

Measures to reduce tax avoidance include revision of capital gains and losses provisions both of which help Morgan and his partners to escape income taxes, as well as compulsory joint returns by husband and wife.

Once more there will be a movement for a sales tax, but it isn't likely to get anywhere.

Exemption Under Fire
A showdown is certain on taxation of tax-exempt securities, with the outcome doubtful. Senator Borah of Idaho is one of those who have come to believe Congress should impose such tax and then let the courts decide whether it is constitutional.

Sentiment also has arisen for cutting the present $5 a gallon import duty on hard liquors to $3 or $4. The struggle over that proposal, as well as other liquor measures, will furnish an idea of the strength of the "liquor lobby" now functioning here.

Control Is Problem

Over Million Is Given State, Xmas

42 CWA Projects in Hempstead Will Total $147,326

Uncle Sam played Santa Claus to Arkansas with a bang, thanks to the Civil Works Administration and the Emergency Relief Committee, according to figures released from Little Rock by W. R. Dyess, state director of the two organizations.

Approximately a million and a quarter dollars was released Saturday, December 23, in weekly salaries for workers on CWA and Women's Civil Service projects. A half million was spent during December for materials on these projects—$250,000 was spent for direct relief—an extra Christmas allotment of $200,000 for clothing for the needy was advanced by Mr. Dyess—$23,000 was paid out in cash to Arkansas farmers the Friday before Christmas for the purchase of surplus commodities to be distributed to those in want. And in addition, a purchase of $45,000 worth of eggs was made for January distribution to those on direct relief.

The exhilarating effects of the CWA program was shown throughout the state during the week before Christmas. Stores all over Arkansas reported the greatest pre-Christmas business in years while in Little Rock many items especially related to Christmas shopping were sold out several days in advance.

Projects approved under the CWA program neared the ten and a half million mark Saturday according to the report by A. C. Lancaster, State Engineer. The total number of projects approved for Hempstead county was 2, amounting to $147,326.24.

On Again, Off Again!

YEAH, GLADYS, I'LL BE UP, AS SOON AS I GET DRESSED!

COMMISSIONER'S SALE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN. That in pursuance of the authority and directions contained in the decretal order of the Chancery Court of Hempstead County, Arkansas, made and entered on the 7th day of December, 1933, in a certain cause then pending therein wherein John P. Boyd et al. were plaintiffs and Jim Purdie et al. were defendants, the undersigned as Commissioner of said Court will offer for sale at public vendue to the highest bidder at the front door or entrance to The Citizens National Bank in the City of Hope, in Hempstead County, Arkansas, within the hours prescribed by law for judicial sales, on Wednesday, the 10th day of January, 1934, the following described land situated in Hempstead County, Arkansas, to-wit:

The West Three-fourths of the Southeast Quarter of the Northeast Quarter (W³/₄ SE¹/₄ NE¹/₄), and all of the Southwest Quarter of the Northeast Quarter (SW¹/₄ NE¹/₄) except five acres in a square in the northwest corner thereof; and also five acres in a square out of the Northeast Quarter of the Northeast Quarter (NE¹/₄ NE¹/₄) and described as follows: Commence at the northwest corner of said NE¹/₄ NE¹/₄, and run thence east one hundred thirty-four (134) yards to a stake, the point of beginning, run thence east one hundred fifty-five and one-half (155½) yards, thence south

Half Year Off Out of 34

Just as casually as she slips her tea outdoors any afternoon she's not working, regardless of weather, Allison Skipworth, famous comedienne, takes her stage and film career. She acted in 20 Broadway failures before she made good, and in her 34-year career she's been idle only 27 weeks.

155½ yards, thence west 155½ yards, thence north 155½ yards back to the point of beginning—all of said lands being situated in Section Seventeen (17), Township Eleven (11), South, Range Twenty-three (23) West, and containing in all 70 acres, more or less.

TERMS OF SALE: On a credit of three months, the purchaser being required to execute a bond as required by law and the order and decree of said Court in said cause, with approved security, bearing interest at the rate of ten per cent (10%) per annum from date of sale until paid, and a lien being retained on the premises sold to secure the payment of the purchase money.

Given under my hand on this 19th day of December 1933.

DALE JONES
Commissioner in Chancery.
